6 w. SAMUEL GROVE.

ALEPPO, JUNE 11.

IT is offered that Oſman Pacha is ſhut up in Damaſcus with 30,000 men, and beſieged by the troops of Ali Bey; but that 20,000 Druſes coming to his aſſiſtance, attacked and beat the beſiegers, of whom five or ſix hundred were killed and wounded.

SMYRNA, JUNE 11. We have juſt received advice that Ali Bey has gained a conſiderable advantage over the Pachas of Kilis and Aleppo, whom Oſman Pacha, of Damaſcus, ſent to attack him. It is pretended that 6000 of his troops approached towards Damaſcus, and that Oſman Pacha, having left 30,000 men to garriſon the place, marched out to head the different diviſions of Aſiatick troops that act upon the march to oppoſe the progreſs of the army from Egypt.

FRONTIERS OF HUNGARY, July 28. The laſt advices from Valachia agree, that the Ruſſians are driven quite out of that province, and that the Turks are in poſſeſſion of all their poſts on the left ſide of the Danube, above the mouth of the Pruth.

The plague is broke out at Bender, and in ſome villages in Moldavia.

LEGHORN, July 26. The letters from Vienna and Venice, confirm the advantages lately gained by the Turks over the Ruſſians, on the other ſide the Danube. According to theſe accounts, the latter have loſt in three ſucceſſive attacks near 20,000 men, beſides a great quantity of artillery, and ſome magazines.

BESANCON, Auguſt 5. Yeſterday at five o'clock in the morning, Mr. de Groſbois, Firſt Preſident of the Parliament, received orders from the King, which baniſh him to his ſeat at Groſbois. In the evening the Duke de Randan arrived here, preceded by fifteen of the Marechauſſé with Mr. Baſtard, Counſellor of State. This morning at four o'clock, all the Members of Parliament received letters de cachet, enjoining them to go to the palace at eight o'clock, to hear the King's orders; and, when they went, Mr. Baſtard read an edict for ſuppreſſing the Parliament. Some of the members deſired leave to deliberate, but they were forbid ſo to do; and, in the afternoon, freſh letters de cachet arrived, which exiled thirty five of the members to different places. There are twenty or twenty-five who are not exiled, and who, it is thought, will compoſe a new Parliament.

BRUSSELS, Auguſt 20. In the memory of man never was ſuch weather known as we have had in this country for the laſt three weeks. Not many weeks ago we had the greateſt appearance of plenty, but at preſent, from the continual and exceſſive rains that have fallen, and ſtill continue, we have a moſt melancholy proſpect before us; and indeed, if this bad weather continues but a very little longer, we have every thing to dread. Prayers are offered up in all the churches for fair weather, and this day the proceſſions will begin.

HAMBURGH, Auguſt 16. The waters are fallen ten feet eleven inches; but, by accounts from Magdeburgh of the height of the river there, we are apprehenſive that, together with that and the continuance of the rains and the weſterly winds, the waters will riſe again over the lands, which the Magiſtrates are labouring to free from the inundation.

PETERSBURGH, July 31. In the account publiſhed by authority of our late victory, gained by Prince Dolgorucki, under the walls of Caffa, we are informed, that immediately on our beginning to cannonade the port of Caffa, the Seraſkier Ibrahim ſent an officer with a letter, offering to ſurrender the place upon allowing him his liberty, and alſo to his attendants; which being refuſed, except with reſpect to himſelf, to which he was obliged to conſent, and our infantry being put in poſſeſſion of the ſuburbs, and a regiment of Huſſars in that of the port, the Seraſkier left the city, preſented himſelf before Prince Dolgorucki, and ſurrendered up his ſcimitar to him; the Prince immediately returned it, in the name of the Empreſs, in conſideration of his rank and age, which the Seraſkier received as a particular favour, and ſhewed it by a torrent of tears.

Caffa is a very large city, and is very populous; but at Kertſch and Yenicola, the other places taken by our troops, are to be ſeen nothing but miſery and deſtruction.

Count Mouſchin Pouchſchin, Knight of the Order of St. Ann, died here after a ſhort illneſs.

WARSAW, Auguſt 7. The ſucceſs of the Ruſſians is very great in Georgia; the troops which Major General Scoutbin ſent into Armenia have joined Prince Heraclius, who has quitted the neighbourhood of Cars, and advanced to Trebiſond, where he daily makes ſuch progreſs, that we ſhould not be ſurprized to ſee Conſtantinople at length attacked.

SMYRNA, July 3. The plague makes greater havock in this city and neighbourhood than has ever been remembered. Several hundreds die daily; and to compleat our diſtreſs, there is a ſcarcity of proviſions. The plague has likewiſe appeared in ſeveral foreign veſſels which are now in the harbour.

LEGHORN, Auguſt 2. Our letters from Parma adviſe, that the rigourous proceedings there, were in conſequence of ſome papers which were lately found at the Duke de Choiſeul's. They write from the Levant, that General Count Orlow is arrived at Paros, where he is aſſembling all his fleet, in order to go upon ſome important enterprize.

PARIS, Auguſt 16. The project of reducing our troops is continued. Each company of foot, both of national and foreign troops, is reduced from 63 men to 50. By this ſcheme about 24,000 men are diſcharged. The reduction of the cavalry is to take place next, and as that corps is more expenſive than the infantry, it is thought the reduction will be greater. The marine is likewiſe to be conſiderably reduced.

We expect ſome new changes in the finances. It is aſſured, that the propoſed loan in Holland has not ſucceeded, and that they could not raiſe more than 100,000 livres at Amſterdam, and 6000 at the Hague. Notwithſtanding the reductions propoſed, and which have already begun to be made, they are augmenting the taxes on the people, and the new Parliament is very buſy verifying the money edicts. The Duke of Chartres was very near loſing his life a hunting ſome days ago, having wounded a wild boar, the beaſt turned and run at him, and threw his horſe down, but happily the young Prince had preſence of mind and activity enough to get up and ſhoot the boar dead at his feet.

DANTZICK, Auguſt 14. Advices having been received here from different parts of Poland, that the plague has broken out again not only in the Turkiſh Ukrain, but likewiſe in the province of Volhynia. This unexpected melancholy event has thrown the otherwiſe diſtreſſed inhabitants of Poland into the greateſt conſternation.

BRESLAU, Auguſt 12. The laſt accounts from Poland mention, that the Empreſs of Ruſſia has ſent a courier to Berlin, to notify to his Pruſſian Majeſty, that ſhe had rejected ſeven of the preliminary articles which were ſent by the Porte, and that ſhe will not agree to any ceſſation of arms during the negociation.

CONSTANTINOPLE, July 17. The 6th inſtant the brother to the Grand Vizir ſet out from hence for the army. He is ſaid to be charged by the Grand Signor to repair to Field Marſhal Count Romanzow with articles of peace. What has given riſe to this report is that the day of his departure, juſt before he ſet out, a grand Council was held in presence of the Sultan, to consider of a proposition of that Monarch, whether it would not be more expedient to conclude a peace with the Russians without the mediation of any power, as many inconveniencies might arise from such mediation to this Empire.

WARSAW, August 10. The Commission of the Treasury of the Crown published a declaration the first of July, that as, by the Grace of God, the epidemical distemper had ceased in this kingdom, and the neighbouring countries, all commerce should be from that time free again throughout the kingdom.

We have accounts from Count Romanzow's army, that the 14th of July, 25,000 Turks passed the Danube near Glurwego under the Bassa of Silistria, but that they were so well received by the Russians, that hardly 3000 repassed it.

August 12. We have received certain accounts that the whole Crimea is now in the power of the Russians, and that they have already sent troops from thence over the canal of Caffa to Asia to take Cuban.

FRONTIERS OF POLAND, August 13. The mail from Warsow of the 10th inst. is not yet arrived, but a letter from Choczim, dated July 13, imports that the Russians had again rendered themselves master of Glurwego, and the particulars of that conquest were hourly expected.

BRESLAU, August 12. The Russians have opened the campaign in Georgia: Prince Salomon, who has joined them, has laid siege to the castle on the island of Coppa, which makes a most vigorous defence. According to some advices, the Regent of Persia has assembled an army under the walls of Tauris, with an intent to watch the motion of the Georgians.

VENICE, August 3. It is reported here as a truth, that the grand Russian army, commanded by General Romanzow, hath gained a complete victory over that of the Grand Vizir; that the latter has abandoned his camp, and that several Bashaws have been lately taken prisoners.

FRAWENFELD IN SWITZERLAND, July 22. In the morning of the 19th instant, a fire broke out in the house of a baker, which destroyed a whole street, in which were the Catholic church and 64 houses.

PARIS, August 22. The parliament of Paris registered an edict from the King the 17th inst. suppressing the parliament of Douay.

August 23. They write from Brest, that there has been a fresh quarrel between the officers in garrison there, and the marine guards, and that a number have been killed and wounded on both sides.

LONDON, August 27.

Extract of a Letter from Hamburgh, July 20.

"The grievous situation of one of the most considerable and mercantile towns of the whole empire, and of Europe, must concern all those who are not estranged from the welfare of mankind and trade; the rapidness, the continuance, and the enormity of the swelling waters, are inconceivable; our sluices are insufficient to hold the mass of waters which come from Bohemia and the Upper Saxony; nothing is omitted to fortify and hinder them from bursting; but the heighth of the waters resists the greatest part of the labours we would undertake. The vast plains about the town are become great lakes, upon which ships go in full sail. The waters are risen above the tops of the houses. Providence alone is able to extricate us out of the danger we are in. The Senate Extraordinary met yesterday, in which it was resolved to lower the dykes a foot, that the water may run over them: This precaution, it is hoped, will hinder a greater inundation, which would be unavoidable were the sluices unhappily carried away. At the same time the Senate caused to be published, in case of greater danger, that two cannon should be fired, and the march beat, to warn those who dwell in cellars and ground-floors, to retire to higher places. Orders were likewise given, that every body should keep at home, and every one suspected of taking this unhappy occasion of plundering shall be arrested. We are between life and death: May our ardent prayers prevail with the Almighty, by whom alone we can hope to be saved!"

Extract of a Letter from Monaco, August 9.

"It is reported, that the King of Sardinia, on account of his great age, has resolved to resign his crown to the Hereditary Prince his son. His present Majesty was born the 27th of April, 1701, and ascended the Throne on the resignation of his father, on the 30th of September, 1730.

"They write from Parma, that the people seeming discontented at the new arrangements which are making, the Infant Duke ordered the Governor of the town to double the guard, and to send a patrole into all the streets to hinder more than six people from being together, and to continue the search after the authors of some seditious writings against the government, and punish them according as they are culpable."

Extract of a Letter from Paris, August 12.

"There was a curious experiment made here last Friday, to prove that an intense heat will entirely dissolve a diamond, and turn it into vapour; the practicability whereof is now past a doubt, several having been evaporated before 100 people, who saw the diamond gradually diminish and annihilate in a crucible by the intense heat only."

Extract of a Letter from the Hague, August 20.

"According to the last advices from Stockholm, a misunderstanding hath risen between the King and the Senators of Sweden concerning the restoring the Chambers of the Senate, which were removed during the time that the last Diet was held, the Senators claiming their former employments. The King told them, that he could not acquiesce in their claims without lessening the respect due to the memory of his father and his own authority, unless they retracted the expressions they had made use of. Upon their refusing to do this, the King sent for the Orators, and ordered them to tell the Senators in his name, "That being born a Swede, he knew perfectly well the extent "of their power, which he will never permit them to make an "ill use of, but was absolutely determined to proceed in every "thing agreeable to the laws and constitution of the kingdom." This declaration, which was made by his Majesty with great resolution, being signified to the Senators, staggered them so much that they are at a loss how to act, so as to reconcile themselves to his Majesty's good graces.

Extract of a Letter from Warsaw, August 10.

"Peace seems to be farther from this kingdom than ever. None of the Magnates have yet yielded to the invitation of M. de Saldern, the Russian Ambassador. His declarations were too harsh for most of the Polanders, who thought they discovered in it the dictates of a foreigner, who seemed desirous to give law to them, which they cannot brook."

AUGUST 31. Yesterday one Britain, confined in Reading Jail, on the information of Mr. Dudley, sent a letter to a great person in the Ministry, defying him, it is said, to bring him to justice; and saying he does not in the least deny his being concerned in setting fire to Portsmouth dock-yard, but that he did it through want of bread; and that several persons were concerned in it; whose influence will be sufficient to prevent any enquiry.

The above Britain appears to be a very sensible man, and a scholar, was, many years since, a dragoon in his Majesty's service, and lately (as we are informed) an officer ——, but by various turns of fortune was reduced so low that he was starving for want of the common necessaries of life, when he was hired to commit the above attrocious crime: He is visited by great numbers of gentlemen and ladies in the prison; says, that he has been promised any money he wants on condition of his observing an inviolable secrecy, which he refused. He has wrote to two noble L—ds in A——n, a copy of one of which follows hereafter.

"Mr. ——, Reading, August 28, 1771.

"I have sent you the true copy of a letter I sent to Lord —— by yesterday's post. I hope you have courage enough to publish it, and then the world will see what a wretched set of men compose the present administration. Sir, they dare not bring me to a trial. I know too much of their wickedness. I have dared the Earl of ——, about ten days ago, in as sharp a letter as this. All the answer I received was a letter from an agent, either of theirs or of the French, offering to bail me out of prison, provided I would quit the kingdom and go to France. . . . . Publish the letter literally, and sign Britain at the bottom.

I am, Sir, your humble servant,

J. BRITAIN."

Copy of a Letter sent to L—d ——, dated August 27, 1771.

"My Lord,

"I am not surprised that you should do all that lies in your power to bury in oblivion the late fire at Portsmouth dock—In all debates wherein the honour of the British nation, is really concerned, we always see L—— D——'s name prefixed to the country side of the question; consequently we must expect the same, when the affair will expose your lordship's conduct; wherein will be proved your receiving large sums of money at different times for your secret services.——Perhaps you say, "what credit can be given to the evidence of a villain, who would be such a traytor to his King and country." But hold, my Lord, your crimes are more heinous than mine.——What money I received was a bare subsistance—yours, my Lord, to indulge luxury.—I was in a mean capacity, a menial servant only.—You, my Lord, in a high office, intrusted with the rights and privileges of the people of England.—Besides, my Lord, I have another advantage over you. I am the penitent publican, while you continue the hardened Pharisee.——

——Do not let the above displease your Lordship, as I send it to give you an opportunity to vindicate your character, and bring the people concerned in that affair (i. e. Portsmouth fire) to a trial, which I believe your Lordship dare not do. If my evidence is not sufficient to prove all the charges I have made, I will suffer as the principal. Though my Lord, you must not alter the law of the land: Those tricks must be left off.

I am, your Lordship's most humble servant,

—— BRITAIN.

N. B. The printer can procure any gentleman of distinction a sight of the original letters; in which the names of the persons to whom they are addressed, are written at full length.

This day stocks fell considerably, owing to some important intelligence relative to the late fire at Portsmouth, and, it is expected, they will fall 10 per cent. by Monday or Tuesday next.

We hear it is intended, by a patriotic commoner, at the opening of the Parliament, to make a motion for annihilating most of the military governments in England, which will be a prodigious saving to the nation, as great salaries are annexed to most of them, and enjoyed by Governors, who, so far from residing there, seldom or ever see the inside of the garrisons.

SEPTEMBER 2. The Earl of Chesterfield, we hear, had an audience upon national affairs, with a Great Personage, privately at Richmond, in the course of last week, the result of which is impatiently expected by the public.

An old Proverb says, That there is seldom much smoak without some fire; to what then are we to impute the many expresses which have been lately dispatched and received here respecting the affair of Portsmouth dock-yard; if no such thing be under consideration, why all this face of business? And if there be, why are the public kept so long a stranger to the nature of them?

A report is endeavoured to be propagated, that Britain, the man now confined in Reading jail for forgery, and who has talked so largely about the late fire at Portsmouth, is insane; but it is thought, that if his principles do not prove as sound as his understanding, he will raise a flame in this nation which will be much too warm for many of the higher orders of the community.

SEPTEMBER 4. Before the Duke of Gloucester took leave of his brother, the Duke of Cumberland, previous to his voyage, he talked very seriously with him on the impropriety and wickedness of his conduct; and entreated him, for the sake of every one related to him, and for his own reputation, to reform. His Royal Highness enforced intreaties with tears, at the same time telling him, that his ingratitude and cruelty to Lady Grosvenor (who, however guilty, did not deserve punishment from him) had lessened him more in the opinion of people of generous principles, than even the crime, great as it was, which he had committed with her; as in extenuation of the crime, he might, perhaps, plead a very strong affection; but that nothing could be said to palliate his behaviour to the lady afterwards, which was mean and inhuman, and shewed a want of every social feeling.

SEPTEMBER 5. The new regulations in the military have occasioned so much dissatisfaction amongst all ranks of people in France, that it is generally apprehended it will be productive of some very disagreeable consequences.

Among the many instances of female frailty, which furnish the conversation of the day, we are happy in relating a recent instance of female virtue. A gentleman, who has made no small figure in the beau monde, was some time since married to a most agreeable woman; soon after his marriage he lived in the most expensive manner and lavished large sums at New-market. He had not been long married before he grew neglectful of his lady, frequently left gentlemen at home for her to entertain, and obliged her to accompany them to public places: The consequence was, several of them used such freedoms with her, as were by no means consistent with either her delicacy or virtue. She, however, concealed the affronts she received, lest it should endanger the life of her husband, till a certain nobleman, who is a married man, made her such proposals as shocked her, at the same time informing her they were with her husband's approbation. She flew to her husband, who told her she would be wise to comply with his lordship's offer, as thereby she would procure a fine settlement to herself and a good appointment for him; as he was sorry to inform her, he was not worth one guinea, and expected an execution in the house every moment. On receiving this infamous advice, she turned from him with indignation, and returned to his lordship, who told her he had already made her husband a present of three hundred pounds, and had gone too far to recede. She then told his lordship, that since it was her husband's desire, she begged his lordship to get the settlement made out and bring it to her in order that she might consult her attorney. His lordship in raptures obeyed her commands; but no sooner had she the parchments in her possession, than she went to his lordship's family, and delivered them up. They were charmed with her virtue, and the revenge she had taken of two perfidious men, and voluntarily between them made a settlement of two hundred pounds per annum for life, on which she now subsists in Italy.

The following may be depended on as an authentic account of the seizure of the Argyle, a ship of two hundred and fifty tons, by the Governor of the Brazils, as lately mentioned. Captain Hasell, of the Duke of Portland Indiaman, being determined to take out with him a quantity of goods on his own private account (which are forbid by the company) hired the above ship in the river, which he loaded with several stands of fire-arms, pig-lead, copper, &c. and sent her to the Canaries beforehand, to wait for the Indiaman's arrival there. It is generally imagined, that the Captain intended on his arrival at the Canaries to have taken the goods on board his own ship, which he could not do in any of the English ports; but the company had so filled the Indiaman with exported goods that he found it impracticable, so ordered the master of the Argyle to follow him on his voyage. On their arrival at the Brazils (where the Portland was already at anchor) the Governor sent his boat on board to enquire the usual questions, where they were bound to, &c. which, whether the master of the vessel was ordered to conceal, or by what, is not as yet known, but the Portuguese officers, finding a great quantity of arms on board, absolutely refused their coming into port. The Captain of the Argyle remonstrated on their want of water and of other articles, on which they were ordered in under the castle guns, where, when they arrived they were seized, and the Captain and crew were all committed to the dungeons as pirates, where they continued above five months, till advice was sent thereof to Lisbon. Orders were then brought to the Governor, to send them in a man of war home to Lisbon; where, when they arrived, the crew were all sent to England, but the Captain is still detained for further examination. The ship and her cargo must be delivered up, it being to be proved English property; but it is, however, imagined it will hurt the Captain (Hassell) in the company's service, who perhaps will never be employed again. The Duke of Gloucester has, it is said, instructions relative to the above transaction.

They write from Rome, of the 10th of August, that the Pope has taken a year to determine the fate of the Jesuits; they add, that at the repeated instances of the courts of Versailles and Madrid, that society will certainly sooner or later be suppressed.

ST. JAMES's, August 31. His Majesty was graciously pleased, in the month of June last year, to direct, that the ensigns of the most honourable Military Order of the Bath should be sent to the East-Indies, for the investure of Col. Eyre Coote, Major-General in the East-Indies, by one of the Princes of the country; and the same were accordingly sent by Captain Dent, commander of his Majesty's ship the Dolphin; but as Col Coote set out from thence, on his return to England, before the arrival of the Dolphin, the ceremony was not performed till yesterday, when his Majesty was graciously pleased to invest Col. Coote with the ensigns of the said order, in the usual manner.

NEWBERN, (North-Carolina) SEPTEMBER 27.

At a Court of Vice-Admiralty held here this Week, before the Hon. William Brimage, Esq; was condemned, a small Schooner Boat, seized by Mr. John Malcom, late Tide-Surveyor of New-Port, in Rhode-Island, but now of the Port of Currituck, in this Province. The poor Skipper who has now lost his all, was loading a few Shingles on board her, which he thought he had a Right to carry from one Port to another without a Permit, till Mr. Malcom convinced him he was breaking the Acts of Trade, to the egregious Damage of the fair Trader.

WILMINGTON, (North-Carolina) OCTOBER 9.

By Captain Blackmore, from Jamaica, we are informed, that Captain James McConnell, of the Sloop Sally, on his Passage from Edenton (in this Province) to Jamaica, struck upon a Rock near Turks-Island in the Night of the 24th of July last, which shattered his Vessel so much that he was obliged to throw great Part of his Cargo over-board. Captain Blackmore left him repairing his Vessel in Jamaica, where he had, with great Difficulty, arrived the 25th of August.

Captain Blackmore also informs, that two Spanish Vessels had carried into Carthagena an English armed Schooner, which was soon discharged on Account of her having the King's Commission; that on her arrival at Jamaica, two Men of War were immediately dispatched to Carthagena and the Havana, with orders, it was said, to inquire into this Capture, and to demand a Number of Englishmen who are imprisoned and cruelly treated in both these Places.

WILLIAMSBURG, (Virginia) SEPTEMBER 26.

PHILADELPHIA, OCTOBER 3.

On Tuesday last, at a Meeting of the Common-Council, John Gibson, Esq; was chosen Mayor of this City for the ensuing Year.

We hear from Princetown, that on the 22d ult. died there Job Stockton, Esq; one of the Judges for Somerset County, New-Jersey. He was a Gentleman of excellent Capacity, and great Application to Business, and at the same Time unblemished Integrity, and singular Humanity, which makes his Death, at the Age of 38, deeply and universally regretted. He has left by his Will 100l. to the College of New-Jersey.

OCTOBER 10. On Monday next the General Assembly of this Province meets here.

Last Friday Captain Higgs arrived here from St. Eustatia, and informs, that on the 15th of last Month came on, at that Place, a most violent Gale of Wind at N. W. on which he, with a Sloop and a Schooner, belonging to Virginia, three or four Vessels belonging to New-York, and several New-England Men, about 20 Sail in all, put out to Sea; that the next Day the Wind shifted to S. W. and increased to a mere Hurricane, which obliged him to scud for 48 Hours before it abated; that he did not see any of the Vessels after he got out, but imagines the Virginia Men returned to St. Eustatia after the Gale, as they had not discharged much of their Cargo, and that on the 23d, in the Latitude of Bermuda, he met with another Hurricane, more severe than the former, which caused him to lie to for 36 Hours, but luckily he received no Damage.

OCTOBER 14. On Wednesday the 2d Instant was held at Perth-Amboy, the annual Meeting of the Corporation for the Relief of the Widows and Children of Clergymen in the Communion of the Church of England in America; when a Sermon, adapted to the Occasion, was preached by the Rev. Dr. Chandler. His Excellency Governor Franklin, and several Gentlemen of the first Rank among the Laity, who are Members of the Corporation, were so kind as to attend; and the Largeness of the Collection made, in Church, for the Use of that laudible Institution, is greatly to the Honour of the Congregation that were present.

OCTOBER 17. On Thursday last came to Town, his Excellency General Gage, from New-York, on Saturday he reviewed the 21st Regiment of Foot, and on Monday last set off on his return to New-York.

Monday last the General Assembly of this Province met here, when Joseph Galloway, Esq; was chosen Speaker; and Charles Moore, Esq; Clerk of the House. Benjamin Franklin, Esq; is appointed Agent for this Province at the Court of Great-Britain, for the ensuing Year.

On his Landing, he was received by a great Number of the principal Inhabitants of the Place; the Bells were immediately set a Ringing; and in the Afternoon his Commission was read at the Court-House, in the Presence of a vast Concourse of People.

ST. JOHN'S, (Antigua) AUGUST 31.

On Saturday last, about 9 o'Clock in the Morning, the five Pirates were brought from the Goal, and carried in two Carts to the Place of Execution, amidst a prodigious Number of Spectators; they behaved very penetently, particularly at the Place of Execution, where they were attended by the Rev. Mr. Bowen; after Prayers, at which they all seemed to join with great Fervency, on being asked if they had any Thing to say, they uniformly answered in the Negative; only Cooper addressed the Populace, particularly the seafaring Part of it, to take warning by their Fate, and learn Submission and due Subordination to their Officers. At 35 Minutes after ten the Carts were pulled away, whilst they continued calling on God to have Mercy on their Souls. Cooper and Washington were afterwards gibbeted near St. James's Fort, pursuant to their Sentence.
